WITH NAPOLEON AT THE END

Belgian Peasant Was Emperor's Guide on That Memorable June Day at Waterloo.

Certainly a place in history is assured to Jean Baptiste Coster, who was Napoleon's guide on the day of Waterloo. He was born at Louvain, and was fifty-three when he did that great day's work. The post did not come to him willingly. He was captured by the French and taken early on Sunday morning to the farm of Risson, where Napoleon had spent the night.

"You are to be my guide," said Napoleon, and after some conversation it was settled. The battle began at one o'clock. Napoleon was on foot, attended by his aides-de-camp and Coster. He took out a map, questioned Coster as to the roads, thought for some time. Then he put the map in his pocket and did not look at it again. The little man stood until four o'clock, often saying in a clear voice, "It goes well."

Then he mounted his horse and led his staff to the slight hill near La Belle Alliance. There they remained till seven o'clock, when Napoleon, looking through his glass, said: "I think that I see the Prussian flag." A general replied: "I think so, too." Thereupon Napoleon shook his head and turned pale. As they rode on to La Haye Sainte a hail of bullets assailed them. Coster ducked his head. But Napoleon muttered: "Stand straight, my friend; a ball can hit you as well on the right as the left."

Then came the final struggle. The duke of Wellington's men charged, broke the lines, and set the French in disorder.

OLD CRAFT OF ODD DESIGN

Mesopotamia Boat. Known as Kufa. Known to Have Been in Use Before Christian Era.

The Kufa, a curious circular boat made of basketwork, and seen nowhere else in the world, is a common sight in Mesopotamia. The ferry-men charge only a cent each passenger. There is one good point about these strange craft—they are not easily upset. Their carrying capacity also is great, and the kufa men pack in their passengers like herrings in a barrel. I had the good luck to take a photograph of the actual building of a kufa on the banks of the Tigris river, says a writer in the Wide World. They are made of date palm branches woven together with rope made out of leaves of the same palm, thickly plastered on the outside with bitumen. They range from four to twelve feet in diameter. Nowhere but on the Tigris and lower Euphrates rivers can one see these curious craft, which serve principally for the transport of passengers, country produce and beasts of burden across the river. About three men are required to make a kufa of respectable size, and it takes them some twenty days to build it. Like the kelek, the kufa is of great antiquity, for both these strange craft were in use long before the time of Christ. The evidence of this is indisputable, for on the bas-reliefs taken from the palace of Sennacherib both craft are clearly represented.

The Hot Foot Bath.

There is nothing like a hot foot bath to tranquillize the nervous system after a siege of prolonged study, literary labor or other intellectual activity at night. The bath should be taken every night, for about ten or twelve minutes, before going to bed, and the water should be as hot as can be borne. Let the water come well over the ankles. It will cause the blood vessels in the feet to fill and afford almost instant comfort and soothing effect, as it withdraws blood pressure from the overstimulated brain. This induces relaxation and eases the mental tension, quieting the nervous system, so that sleep is promoted.

It is necessary to keep the water up to the highest temperature at which it can be borne for at least ten minutes, by adding hot water as the temperature of the foot bath becomes lower.

Game Being Exterminated.

Indiscriminate slaughter of Sambar by villagers in India, is likely to cause the extermination of this noble species of deer. Even now they are very hard to find in places where they used to be common. These large deer can be easily killed without the use of firearms and with the aid of even one or two useless pariah dogs. A dog has only got to chase one or even a herd and they make for the closest water available and stand in it, and so long as the dog stays near them and barks they will not leave the water but will allow themselves to be surrounded and killed by men armed with only sticks and axes.

The "Temperament" Excuse.

Sometimes you hear of an excuse for faults: "It is my temperament." There never was a temperament that had not its good as well as its evil possibilities. The truth is that we inherit our temperament with its natural perversions, and it is our business in life to shake off the perversions, in order that we may do the best work we can. If all who have excused themselves for selfishness and evil because of their "temperament" had recognized that they were really excusing the perversions of their temperament, and not the temperament itself, much needless pain and sorrow might have been avoided.

Texas Woman Near Death.

Wil Point, Tex.—In a letter from Mrs. Victoria Stallings says: "I was afflicted with womanly troubles had a dreadful cough, and suffered awful pains. I certainly would have died, if I had not been relieved by taking Cardui. Now I am stronger, and in better health than I ever was in my life. I can't say half enough for this great medicine." Do you need relief? Try Cardui for your womanly troubles. Its long record of successful use is your guarantee. Thousands of ladies have been helped to health and happiness by Cardui. It will surely help you. Try a bottle today.

CONFUSING TO THE READER

Varieties of Geographical Names in Europe Apt to Prove Something of a Puzzle.

Foreign geographical names often prove confusing to American readers because each European country has a name of its own for each of its cities, rivers and other geographical features. Every other nation has a different name for the same thing. American geographies follow the English in their nomenclature, but often employ a different pronunciation.

For example, we call the chief Belgian stronghold and the temporary capital Antwerp, while the Belgians and French call it Anvers. We term another Belgian city Mechlin, while at home it is termed Malines. The River Meuse is pronounced in Belgium and France very nearly as we would pronounce it, while the Germans pronounce it as it if were spelled Moysay, and the people of the Netherlands call it Maas.

Brussels is spelled Bruxelles at home and the final s is not pronounced. Dendermonde, on the River Dender, is pronounced Dandermond by its inhabitants, but it is known as Termonda in most of the geographies. Aalst is also spelled Alost. Louvain is Leuven at home, Vienna is Wien and Ghent is Gand.

So one might go down the line. It is to be hoped that some day the geographical societies will get together and agree upon a nomenclature that will be universally adopted.

NO JOY RIDERS THERE.

"My son, try to walk in the straight and narrow way."

"Yes, father."

"It's a safe way for more reasons than one. It's comparatively free from automobiles."

ANOTHER HERO.

Fifi—Have you heard of our engagement?

Mimi—No—er—who's the plucky man?—London Opinion.

ITS KIND.

"The Germans and Russians appear to be having equal trouble in the eastern battles, don't they?"

"Yes; Lordz of it."

ITS EFFECT.

"An aviator must be an idealist."

"Why so?"

"Doesn't he adopt a life of high thinking and plane living?"

OBLIGING.

"Watched singing, at that concert! But I went there merely to kill time."
